Well i had been informed this forum was informative, chatty, and a higher class of user than most of the other Trucking forums:X

But to be honest 90% of the posts are just from the same two people:S But you do have better smillies than some of the others tho ,so their's a plus point:thumbup:

A simple google finds all the information that is out there,,,nothing is private if it is on the internet...as you well now....that is why you published it on the internet :unsure:.....

But a friendly piece of advice,,,get as far away from siteground as you can,they are and always will be useless at what they do...and your servers are not in America there in bulgaria....

ps whats a blog for if its not for reading ?

pps, here's another reason why siteground are not owrth there money "Over 5 years professional experience in the IT industry" and that is a quote from there website, 5 years??? is that all??
